

The image shows the interior of a modern bar and restaurant named 'Fish Shop'. The most striking feature is the ceiling, which is covered in a dense, intricate web of dark, woven wicker or rattan structures that resemble large, stylized fish or abstract organic forms. The space is bright and airy, with large windows on the right side allowing natural light to flood in. In the foreground, there are several comfortable-looking armchairs with reddish-brown upholstery and light-colored wooden frames. A low, round wooden table, made from a tree stump, sits in front of them. In the background, a long bar with a white countertop is visible, stocked with various bottles. Behind the bar, there are shelves with more bottles and some potted plants. A central pillar with a light-colored, textured surface stands in the middle of the room. The overall atmosphere is warm and contemporary, with a focus on natural materials and unique lighting fixtures.

FISH SHOP

BAR & RESTAURANT

EVENTS BROCHURE

ABOUT

Located on The Wharf, significant as the site of the nation's longest-running open-air fish market, Fish Shop Bar & Restaurant pays tribute to the Mid-Atlantic's rich maritime heritage.

Situated at the Southern end of the Wharf and inspired by the fishing communities along the Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay, the menu celebrates fresh local catch and seasonal harvests that generations have enjoyed.

The main bar and restaurant are accompanied by three beautifully designed private spaces, each with its own story and all available for private hire.

As with its original sister restaurant in Ballater, Scotland, in developing Fish Shop we set out to create a genuinely low-waste restaurant, while using the freshest, ethically sourced seafood and showcasing the finest local craftsmanship.

Everything from fit-out to furniture, packaging to waste, has been carefully considered.

OUR VALUES

In developing Fish Shop, we set out to create a genuinely low-waste restaurant, whilst sourcing the freshest, ethically sourced seafood. From the initial build-out, everything has been carefully considered.

Our menu celebrates American fish from the Potomac River and the Mid-Atlantic, focusing on what is readily available and ethically caught. We work directly with trusted fishermen who use low-impact methods such as rod and line, gill net, pound net and bow and arrow. We never serve trawled fish or catch from boats that remain at sea for extended periods, ensuring a more sustainable and carbon-efficient supply.

We partner with responsible producers whose practices actively support the marine environment, particularly in the farming of oysters and bay scallops. By working with whole fish in-house, we maintain quality while minimising waste and creating opportunities for curing and preservation.

Our commitment extends beyond seafood: all meat is free range, and our vegetables come from nearby farms, including Dreaming Out Loud, an organisation dedicated to improving access to healthy food and food equity. We also prioritise biodynamic wines and collaborate with small, local producers and artisans wherever possible.

ART & CRAFTSMANSHIP

All aspects of the bar and restaurant, from furniture to menus and packaging, have been designed to have the highest possible eco credentials and to showcase the finest local craftsmanship from the surrounding area.

Our dining tabletops are made from recycled plastic diverted from landfill, while much of our furniture is handcrafted using natural materials, traditional techniques, or salvaged elements such as old boats and fishing nets. Even our menus are made from recycled coffee cups, giving new life to materials that would otherwise be discarded.

We collaborate with artisans who share our commitment to sustainability and craft. Aberdeenshire basketmaker Helen Jackson, creator of Fish Shop Ballater's original fish shoal, worked with local artist Angela Eastman to create the 200-fish installation suspended above the dining room, made from invasive North Carolina wisteria and Scottish willow.

Our bar-top lamps are made by eco-artist Erwin Timmers using recycled glass, while artists Corin Sands and Grant Anderson have created a seascape mural in the restaurant.

In the private dining rooms, chairs and wall coverings feature Scottish tartan designed and woven by Edinburgh-based textile designer Araminta Campbell.

SPACES

THE BOAT ROOM

Named for the installation hanging above the table, The Boat Room is our largest private dining room.

Named for the installation suspended above the table, The Boat Room is our largest private dining space. Guests enter through a Scarpa-inspired doorway into a shell plaster wall, hand-finished with imprints from Potomac oysters, alongside a series of original MacFisheries posters.

At its centre is a handcrafted dining table by Vincent Martinelli, made from reclaimed timber sourced from old beams and decommissioned ships. The chairs feature tartan designed and woven by Araminta Campbell, while the Econyl rug is made from regenerated fishing nets.

Whether it's a celebratory occasion or an important business meeting, The Boat Room offers an exceptional private space for every event.

Interconnected in design, they can be booked individually, seating 12 guests respectively, or combined into one private space seating up to 24 guests.

Each room features glass panelling to the front, complemented by a tartan wall, designed and woven by Araminta Campbell, for a touch of Scottish flair.
